Strouse & Bros

Evansville, Ind.

In keeping with our plans for making this store a better place to trade, we are installing a modern store front. This deprives us of the use of show windows for the next few weeks and we realize that under ordinary circumstances our business would be greatly handicapped. But we never sit still—we do big things, and grow stronger in the doing. To off-set this handicap we have reduced prices to such a low figure, that the unwelcome store front will be forgotten by the inviting savings. We call

Insuring a Family

THIS consumptive girl lived in a little house with her parents and four brothers and a sister. When the visiting nurse of the city called upon her she found the whole family in danger of contracting tuberculosis from the young woman through ignorance of the proper methods of caring for the patient. The nurse instructed the members of the family about the preparation of the girl's food and the care of her room, so as to give her every chance for life. Most important of all, the nurse showed how the disease—tuberculosis—is spread from one person to another through the spit and spray from the mouth of a consumptive. They were taught that all of the expectorations should be caught in paper boxes or napkins and burned. These instructions practically insure the lives of the other members of the family.

COLORED COLUMN
 (Miss Neva Waters, Editor)

Mr. Wilbur Riley was in charge of the very excellent program which was rendered at the Baptist church Tuesday. Good music was a special feature of the program. Besides the many glowing tributes paid Rev. Evans, he received several small tokens of respect and appreciation. Chief among these was the beautiful gold compass and square (Masonic pin) donated by the members of the A. M. E. church.

The Children's Day program at Zion Church was quite a success.

Mrs. Della Becker and Rev. H. Amos are still on the sick list. No improvements in either case.

Large attendance at the different Sunday schools, Sunday and good services at the churches.

Rev. Whiteside preached for Rev. Evans Sunday afternoon and Rev. Warden preached Sunday night. The rally was quite a success. The church raised the greater amount of money.

Cynthia Mae, the little niece of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie King is spending the summer at her home in Tenn.

A large number of people from the neighboring communities were in Earlington Saturday, Sunday and Monday. They were attending the picnic, church services and ball game.

Mr. Tom West who was a resident of this city for a number of years died in his room back of Julius Galbreath's Tuesday night. No one knows when he died. The remains were shipped to Crofton for burial.

Mrs. Glenn who lives on Johnson Hill lost her grandchild Tuesday night. The remains were shipped to Pembroke for burial.

Rev. Thomas who was a resident of this city several years ago died in Owensboro Wednesday night. He was visiting his sister there.

Rev. Evans left this morning for different parts of Tenn.

Remember the big picnic to be given by the G. U. O. O. F. Saturday, Earlington and St. Charles will cross bats for the championship. A ten dollar prize will be given to the winning team.

Mr. Will Patton left for Watertown Tenn July 4. He returned Thursday night.

Mr. Jim Davis's mother is visiting him this week.
